

Marianne Zeltner

Born and raised in Switzerland, my journey has been one of exploration, adaptability, and purpose. After spending two years in Germany, a year in Singapore, and seven years in Taipei, my exposure to diverse cultures shaped my global perspective. During my time in Taipei, I was an active member of the Swiss Club, fostering connections within the expatriate community.

Professionally, I served for two years at the Justice Department in Bern, honing my attention to detail and precision. This foundation paved the way for a decade-long career in real estate and project management with the Swiss Army's FUB division, where I mastered organizational strategy and execution.

In search of new horizons, I relocated to Florida, bringing with me a wealth of international expertise and a passion for making meaningful connections. Today, I blend my European precision and global insights to navigate challenges with creativity and integrity. On a personal note, I treasure time with my daughter, who resides in Switzerland, and the ongoing adventure of embracing new opportunities.
